bank made to-day this suggestion to The Evening World:

"If the panic among depositors of State and national banks and trust companies continues, would it not be wise for the Governor of New York to proclaim a bankers' holiday for Monday, and then on Monday proclaim a bankers' holiday for Tuesday, and so on until gold can be procured from the other side of the Atlantic Ocean, where there is a large American balance?

other side of the Allantio Ocean, where there is a large American balance?

"Up-State banks are permitted by the State banking laws to pay either in cash or New York State exchange, so you will readily see that if the present condition spreads through New York there will have to be drastic and immediate relief.

"State and National banks in New York City have no option. They must either pay in cash or suspend. They are required by law to remain open, except upon a legal holiday. If the Governor by himself, or with the aid of the State Legislature, could create a bankers holiday, then the threatened crash would be avoided."

The Evening World, over the long distance telephone, this afternoon transmitted the suggestion to Gov. Hughes. The Covernor would not be quoted, and the other felony.
